

1110 The Bob Shapell School of Social Work

The M.S.W. program is focused on providing knowledge and practice skills and on developing and conceptualizing new knowledge, with the aim of promoting creative, planned, informed and theoretically and empirically-based social work. Knowledge courses cover a variety of theoretical approaches and diverse client populations – families, children, women and more. Practice courses include advanced skills, critical-reflective practice, policy practice, group work, individual and family interventions, and interventions with children. In addition, several courses focus on social issues that are prominent in the public and professional discourse. Two MSW programs are offered: (i) Advanced practice in social work; (ii) Clinical social work with children and adolescents. Within each program, knowledge development is carried out in one of two tracks: Research (Thesis track) and Intervention (Practice track).

The program requires two years (up to 3 years in the thesis track). Only applicants with an undergraduate degree in social work who are fluent in Hebrew, will be considered for admission. All applicants must have a minimum grade point average of 80 from an accredited university. The program for clinical social work with children and adolescents will only be open to applicants with at least two years of experience (by 1.11.2010) at 50% position, in social work with children and adolescents and/or their environment.

All materials, including transcripts of undergraduate work, recommendations and certificates of employment (to confirm years of experience as a social worker), must be received no later than March 31, 2010, to be considered for acceptance to the following academic year.

For detailed information see the Hebrew booklet.
