

The Ramat Rachel Archaeological Project

Some Useful Information

In the following you will find some useful information regarding the Ramat Rachel Archaeological Project, which should help you prepare yourself to your summer excavation adventure.

What to do when landing in Israel: How to get to Ramat Rachel Hotel

You will land in the "Ben Gurion" International Airport of Israel near Tel-Aviv, and you will enter the state from the new "Terminal 3". After collecting your luggage you should look for transportation to Jerusalem.

1. How to get from the International Airport to the holly city of Jerusalem

Jerusalem is about 45 minutes driving from the airport and there are some ways to get there:

The easiest way, as for my opinion, is to use the "Service Taxi Line" to Jerusalem. This is a mini-bus taxi line operates for a sane price 24 hours a day from the airport. You will find it on the "G" floor of Terminal 3 (where you will land) near gates 01-03. A journey to Jerusalem Central Bus Station will coast 29.10 NIS approximately (1$ = 4.5 NIS; 1 Euro = 5.5 NIS). A journey directed to a specific address like the Ramat Rahel Hotel will coast 45 NIS (approximately).

Another optional way is to use the bus. You should take line no. 5 from Terminal 3 to the "Airport City", and from the central "Egged" bus station in the "Airport City" to take line no. 947, which leaves every 30 minutes to Jerusalem Central Station.

The third way to get from the airport to Jerusalem is to go through Tel Aviv: For that way (which is the most complicated one...), You should take the local Railway Train from Terminal 3 to Tel Aviv. You should get of the train on Tel Aviv "Hagannah" station or on the central station and from there to go to the Central Bus Station of Tel Aviv. From Tel Aviv Central there is bus no. 405 leaving every 20 minutes to Jerusalem from the platforms in floor no. 6.

Notice: During the Jewish "Sabbath" (from Friday after-noon to Saturday evening) there is no public transportation like buses or trains. During the Sabbath you can use only the Service Taxi Line, or private Taxi service.

You may find a lot of useful information about the Ben Gurion International Airport and the transportation possibilities to Jerusalem on the Airport web site:

www.iaa.gov.il – After opening this web site chooses the English option (on the left upper corner) and than choose "Ben Gurion Airport".

2. How to get from the Jerusalem Central Bus Station to Ramat Rachel Hotel

The easiest way will be bus no. 7 from the Central Station, which leaves every 20 minutes to Ramat Rachel. His last stop is near the hotel. Don't get down in the entrance to the Kibbutz. It is about 20 minutes drive, inside the modern neighborhoods of western Jerusalem.

Another optional way is to order a Taxi from Jerusalem to the Ramat Rachel Hotel. You will find plenty of taxies willing to help tourist just outside the station. A special taxi drive to the Ramat Rachel Hotel will coast you money by the local rates. I think it will be something between 30-50 NIS. Ask the Taxi driver for the price BEFORE entering, and don't hesitate NOT to go with a taxi driver who will ask for more money. Many of them will try...

Address for letters (Usually take about a week from out side Israel):

There will be also 3 stations where you can connect your laptops (if you have) and use the internet. For electricity – you can use the usual European system. Americans should bring adapters!!

There will be another 3 computers in the office, but they will be ONLY for the staff and ONLY for work.

What should you bring- a suggested list

We are going to spend a four weeks of archaeological excavations, which mean a lot of work, but also- a lot of fun. A side of digging we will have cultural activities, tours around the holy city of Jerusalem and in the beautiful northern parts of Israel, and social activities. You should be well equipped for all of that. First of all be sure that you can buy almost everything you are used to in Israel. You will be able to find here every thing you need and from almost any kind or firm- so don't worry if you are forgetting something.

Second, remember that your main goal for being in Israel is working- digging through land, so you must have appropriate clothing for that, including working shoes (You may use sneakers. Sandals are not allowed- you might drop stones on your foot!!!).

Third, consider the Israeli climate which is HOT and very SUNNY during that time of the year, though Jerusalem might be colder in the nights. So, you must have light short clothes, you must always wear a hat during day work and it is very recommended you will use some sun screen lotion (Although it may seem to be a great opportunity to get a tan, prolonged exposure to the sun is not particularly pleasant, nor good for your health!). For the evening you may also have some warmer clothing.

Third- towels, sheets, pillows and blankets are provided by the hotel.

Fourth, think you are going to a nice interesting trip to the past, think of working, think of tourism- equip yourself to that. Come open minded, ready to a summer adventure, and we will supply your interest and good mode.
